ART OF THE DIVE/PORTRAITS OF THE DEEP features original paintings and sculptures and photographs of outdoor murals by the world's leading sculptors and dive painters, beginning with New York painter, Stanley Meltzoff (1917-2006), who, as curator/author Dr. David J. Wagner explains in AMERICAN WILDLIFE ART, was given his art-of-the-dive start with a commission from National Geographic Society in the 1960's and who is now generally recognized as the progenitor of the genre. As such, Meltzoff has been the model if not the inspiration for a circle of painters who subsequently specialized in portraits of the deep. Included from among these in ART OF THE DIVE are: Al Barnes (of Fulton, TX); MJ Bush (Mystic, CT; who painted on the Northeast Underwater Research Technology and Education Center Alvin
